Abstracts

This study analyses the use of code-mixing as a communication strategy used in Ika Natassa's metropop novel Antologi Rasa. Antologi Rasa is a best-selling metropop novel that depicts Indonesian urban lifestyle; it portrays the have and educated adults living in Jakarta. This paper seeks out the answer to the following questions: (1) What types of code-mixing are employed? and (2) What is the communicative function of code-mixing? The researcher collects the data from Chapter 1 of Antologi Rasa. The researcher only lists the dialogues found in Chapter 1 that contain code-mixing. After listing all data that contain code-mixing, the researcher categorizes each of the code-mixing based on the types of code-mixing based on Kachru's theory (1982) and the communicative function of code-mixing according to Hoffmann's theory (1991). The result of the research shows that in the first chapter of Antologi Rasa, there are 68 sentences that contain five types of code-mixing, namely Unit Insertion (50%), Unit Hybridization (1.47%), Sentence Insertion (29.41%), Idiom and Collocation Insertion (17.64%), and Reduplication (1.47%). The researcher also finds out the reasons of code-mixing found in Ika Natassa's Antologi Rasa, namely talking about a particular topic (95.5%) and being emphatic about something (4.4%).

Keywords: code-mixing, metropop novel, Antologi Rasa

Introduction

Reading novel is an enjoyable activity; many people find escapes there. Metropop novels gain their popularity because they offer the readers a depiction of urban lifestyle including the latest trend in the spoken language. The main characters in Antologi Rasa use Bahasa Indonesia mixed with English, code-mixing, in their daily communication and they are seen as the portrait of Indonesia's current high-class society members. English proficiency is perceived as a status symbol of being educated by many. Those who are "out of the league" are often curious of the A-lists' lifestyle. As a result, metropop novels are like an oasis for them because this genre can satisfy people's hunger and thirst for "dreamt social life". Therefore, the researcher is interested to study two things: (1) what types of code-mixing are used and (2) what communicative functions of code-mixing are found in this novel.

Literature Review

Code-Mixing

Being a bilingual or even multilingual is a common phenomenon in Indonesia. Many Indonesians firstly acquire their mother tongue at home and later Indonesian as soon as they begin their schooling. English has also become a favorite international language to learn, either at school or a language course. Spolsky (2010: 45) writes that the simplest definition of a bilingual is a person who has some functional abilities in a second language. As a result, speakers often mix two or more codes when they converse. The phenomenon of using two or more codes in the same topic is called code mixing. Wardaugh (1992: 106) states that code-mixing occurs when a conversant uses both languages together to the extent that they change from one language to the other in the course of a single utterance. Code-mixing occurs not only in formal and informal speech but also in written texts such as magazines, tabloids, newspapers, and so on.

Types of Code-Mixing

Kachru divides code-mixing into five-types, namely Unit Insertion, Unit Hybridization, Sentence Insertion, Idiom and Collocation Insertion, and Reduplication.

Reasons for Code-Mixing

According to Hoffman (1991: 115-116), code-mixing occurs because of several reasons as described below.

1. Talking about Particular Topic
2. Quoting Somebody Else
3. Being Emphatic about Something
4. Repetition Used for Clarification
5. Express Group Identity

Method

This study used the data taken from the first chapter of Ika Natassa's Antologi Rasa. In the first place, the researcher lists the dialogues containing code-mixing and makes an analysis of their types. Secondly, the researcher analyses which communicative functions the dialogues belong to.

Finding and Discussion

Based on the researcher's analysis of the first chapter of Antologi Rasa, there are 68 sentences containing code-mixing. Here are the data of the types of code-mixing:

	Type	Number	Percentage
UI	Unit Insertion	34	50%
UH	Unit Hybridization	1	1.47 %
SI	Sentence Insertion	20	29.41 %

IC	Idiom and Collocation Insertion	12	17.64 %
R	Reduplication	1	1.47 %
	Total	68	100%

Unit Insertion

Kahru defines unit insertion as the insertion of word, phrase, or dependent clause from different language in single utterance. In this research, the writer found that 34 data (50%) are unit-insertion code-mixing. These are some examples of unit insertion found in novel Antologi Rasa.

Data Number	Dialogue
3	Apapun yang membawa kita bersusah-susah packing , mengantre check in , terduduk bosan menunggu take off , dan menghabiskan berjam-jam di udara sampai akhirnya mendarat dengan tubuh pegal dan mata mengantuk.
9	Some to make history.
10	Forrest Gump, yang tiba-tiba memutuskan untuk berlari keliling dunia selama 3 tahun, 2 bulan, 14 hari, dan 16 jam, menjadi terkenal karenanya dan bahkan sempat menginspirasi terciptanya T-shirt Smiley Face dan bumper sticker bertuliskan Shit Happens (aku tahu ini cuma fiksi, tapi aku serasa menonton History Channel waktu melihat filmnya).
12	Dia langsung melepas safety belt dan berdiri menurunkan barang dari overhead luggage compartment , kedua matanyamasih berkilat-kilat penuh semangat, seperti anak kecil yang ditawari cokelat mahal di malam Hollywood.
13	Aku ikut melepas safety belt , menyambut uluran ransel kamera National Geographic-ku darinya.
15	Gimana gue nggak excited , coba?

Unit Hybridization

Unit hybridization refers to the mixing of two languages in a single word, for example the mixing of a word from one language with suffix from another language. Here is an example:

Data Number	Dialogue
38	Mungkin perjalanan ini tidak se- dreadful yang kubayangkan dengan adanya dia dan kelakuan-kelakuan gilanya di sini.

Sentence Insertion

The researcher found 20 dialogues that contain sentence insertion. A sentence contains a subject and a verb.

1	People travel for different reasons.
2	Terkadang karena pekerjaan, mencari sesuatu, terpaksa, or sometimes it's just for the sake of travelling itself.
4	We travel for work.
5	Untuk beberapa orang, travelling is a part of their job description.
7	Some travel for a greater purpose.
11	Yeah, I've been giving you too much history lesson, haven't I?
16	We are going to be a part of history in the making!"
30	" Oh, come on, babe, you know I won't try anything on you unless you're drunk. "
32	" Get drunk, you mean?"
33	" So, I'm gonna get some action without even getting you drunk first?" godanya.
37	Meet Haris, my best friend.
39	And who's Ruly?
40	Oh, no one.
41	Just another best friend who doesn't know that I love him.
44	Judul yang keren, tapi sebenarnya artinya belajar matematian dan di lempar dari satu departemen ke departemen yang lain selama setahun, di lempar ke salah satu daerah antah berantah menjadi manusia serbabisa selama setahun (buka cabang, isi ATM-termasuk kadang-kadang harus ke mesin ATM di ujung kota karena sudah kosong, mendengarkan repetan nasabah, lembur sampai jam dua pagi membuatkan presentasi untuk regional manager , menahan kedongkolan luar biasa saat si anak buah melakukan kesalahan tolol tapi ngaak mungkin dimarahi karena usianya sudah pantas jadi orangtua sendiri, sampai menahan keinginan luar biasa untuk tidak menjedutkan kepala berkali-kali ke dinding sambil teriak: What did I do wrong to be stuck in this shitty place?! ).

50	And I thought to myself, this guy is not bad looking at all.
51	If anything, he's very good looking.
60	There's just something about the way she laughs, bibirnya terbuka, tawanya lepas.
65	Foreign country. On a holiday. It has been said that people do crazy things out of the ordinary in this kind of circumstances.
68	The loser inside my head has spoken.

Idiom and Collocation Insertion

Idiom is a group of word that cannot be understood from the meanings of its separate words but has a separate meaning of its own whilst collocation refers to a word or phrase that is often used with another word or phrase, in a way that sounds correct to people who have spoken the language all their lives, but might not be expected from the meaning. Based on the data analysis, the researcher found 20 dialogues containing idiom and collocation insertion.

Reduplication

Reduplication is defined as the repetition of two codes that have the same meaning. The researcher found only 1 data that contains reduplication. The data is displayed and explained as follows:

Data Number	Dialogue
27	Dia pernah meledekku saat aku menolak ikut dalam F1 trip ini karena tiketnya yang kubilang sangat overpriced .

The word overpriced has the same meaning with sangat.

The Reasons of Using Code-Mixing

The writer also found the reasons of code-mixing found in Antologi Rasa. From seven reasons stated by Hoffman, the researcher only found two reasons of code-mixing, namely talking about a particular topic and being emphatic about something. Here are the data of the reasons of code-mixing:

	Reason	Number	Percentage
R1	Talking about a particular topic	65	95.58%
R2	Quoting somebody else	0	0%
R3	Being emphatic about something	3	4.41%
R4	Repeating word used for clarification	0	0%
R5	Expressing solidarity	0	0%
R6	Showing interjection	0	0%
R7	Clarifying the speech content for the interlocutor	0	0%
Total			100%

1. Talking about a particular topic

The first reason of using code-mixing is talking about a particular topic. As described previously, people switch language because they lack of competence; as a consequence, they cannot find an appropriate word in a certain language that they switch to another language to deliver the intended message.

After collecting the data, the researcher found that talking about a particular topic is on the top why code-mixing occurs. There are 65 data. Below are some data that indicate the first reason, talking about a particular topic.

- 2 Terkadang karena pekerjaan, mencari sesuatu, terpaksa, or sometimes it's just for the sake of travelling itself.
  - 3 Apapun yang membawa kita bersusah-susah packing, mengantre check in, terduduk bosan menunggu take off, dan menghabiskan berjam-jam di udara sampai akhirnya mendarat dengan tubuh pegal dan mata mengantuk.

2. Being emphatic about something

Emphatic statement refers to statement used by the speaker to show the strong expression to emphasize the important point of the sentence. Based on the data analysis, the researcher found 1 datum containing

- 38 Mungkin perjalanan ini tidak se-dreadful yang kubayangkan dengan adanya dia dan kelakuan-kelakuan gilanya di sini.

The above example shows that by using English word, the speaker wants to give emphasis to the dialogue. The speaker tries to show her feeling by telling se-dreadful.

Conclusion

Based on the research question, the result of the research shows that in the first chapter of Antologi Rasa, there are 68 sentences that contain five types of code-mixing, namely Unit Insertion (50%), Unit Hybridization (1.47%), Sentence Insertion (29.41%), Idiom and Collocation Insertion (17.64%), and Reduplication (1.47%). The researcher also finds out the reasons of code-mixing found in Ika Natassa's Antologi Rasa, namely talking about a particular topic (95.5%) and being emphatic about something (4.4%).
